TO WHOM WE ARE INDEBTED.—

We, the Class of June, '16, take this opportunity of expressing our sincerest appreciation to those, connected with the school, who have most graciously assisted in making our path toward graduation as rosy and as successful as it has been.

To Mr. Wiener, the leading engineer of our course through this institution, we humbly bow our heads in reverence. For the favors and kindness bestowed upon us by our home-room teachers, Mr. Conkling, Mr. Gibbs, Mr. Telfer and Dr. Knowlton, we express our gratitude. To these members of the faculty, Mr. Herzberg, Mr. Lewin, Mr. McMillan, Mr. Smith, Mr. Griffith, Mr. Calman and Mr. Arnao, the advisers and managers of the class and school papers, and of the various class enterprises, we owe many obligations; also to the kind office assistants and Mr. Tomey. For the rest of the faculty, too numerous to remember individually, we have the very highest regard. We hope that some time in the future we may be would have us accomplish in life. Especially applicable to the teacher is the saying: "A man's reward is not always what he does himself, but what he causes others to do."

OUR FACULTY ADVISER.

To try to express our appreciation and admiration for all the kindness we have received from our faculty adviser, Mr. Paul R. Eldrige, is not an easy thing to do. He has helped us so much that words are not adequate enough in telling how grateful we feel toward him.

There is not one person in the class but who voluntarily suggests his high esteem for Mr. Eldrige whenever his name is mentioned, for his charming personality and kind, gentlemanly demeanor has won the hearts of all.

We shall not soon forget our beloved guide, and we wish to extend our most heartfelt thanks to him before we leave, and to wish him all the success in the world.

SENIORS AS OTHERS SEE THEM.

*Oh, wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursel's as others see us!*

—Robt. Burns.

It is generally believed, among people outside of school, that high school seniors usually deport themselves with too much importance, and assume entirely too much authority in the management of the various school functions. But this is not a bad sign. In classrooms, also if seniors take the leading part in arguments and discussions, this merely proves that they have learned to think for themselves.

Just the other day a friend of ours, herself a teacher, informed us that when she was our age she acted just as we do now. "You just can't help it," she explained. "Why, some of the most timid and retiring people that I know were once as loud and as boisterous as they could be. However, they recovered from this spell, and are none the worse for having been under it."

If outsiders would look upon the matter in the proper spirit many of the prejudices against the freshness of high school and college students would soon disappear.

IN SINGULOS DIES.

For the benefit of those who are unacquainted with this Latin expression, we announce that the above means "Day by Day." Brief as it is, this motto is pregnant with meaning. It has been adopted by the senior class because it expresses the only sure method of completing a successful high school career. Let us liken the latter unto a great machine which takes four years for construction. Each day's work contributes a small cog to the machine. If a day be omitted, stress is thrown on the work of the other days and the machine becomes faulty. An accumulation of omissions prevents the machine from being completed in the four years. Thus is much time lost which in these days is so valuable.

Undergraduates of Central, if our four years of experience in school is of any value to you; if you are willing we should leave a parting thought on your minds, then we can do no better than to advise you to do your work Day by Day.

FOR BETTER CLUBS.

In Central there are twenty-two organizations, most of which meet once a week and remain in session for a little over an hour. The average number of students active in each of these clubs is about twenty-five. What do the students accomplish at these meetings? Are they recompensed to the extent of the value of the time invested? Instead of getting down to business and carrying out the purposes of the organization, the club members occasionally indulge in frivolity. Accordingly, little is done, although good health results from the enjoyable time.

There are several recommendations which we, as experienced seniors, feel ought to be offered to the school. The first and most important is that meetings be held only when the faculty adviser is present. The society of the latter always tends to check any frivolity, and a teacher's cool advice, at various periods, is most necessary for the rendering of proper decisions to settle points in debate. The second suggestion is that no more club work be undertaken than can easily be handled in connection with the regular school work. Let each student join but two clubs. This would enable him to spend more time on these two organizations, with the result that greater work would be accomplished.

It is our ardent wish that these important suggestions, based upon the experience of four years of high school club life, be seriously considered by the students, in order that they may shape their activities and spend their time to the best possible advantage.

Much of the success of this Senior number is due to the untiring efforts of our business manager, Harry Schaub. Harry's executive ability and foresightedness has solved many problems resulting from the publication of this large edition.

The 4A Class and the Senior Pivot Board unite in expressing their gratitude for Harry's energetic endeavors.

When a man assumes a public trust, he should consider himself as public property.

JUNE 16'S WILL.

Know all men by these presents, that we, the Class of June, '16, of the Central High School of the City of Newark, New Jersey, being of sound disposing mind (?) and memory, do hereby make and publish and declare this to be our last will and testament:

First. We give and bequeath to the school at large our honorable and beloved principal, Mr. William Wiener, who has been so good and kind to us through all these four years, and has never failed to rescue us from every difficulty which might have hindered our progress upward.

Second. We also bequeath another valuable treasure, which we grieve to part from—our kind and learned faculty, they who have striven so faithfully to instill our minds with high ideals and fashion us into the most noble of men and women and citizens of our great country.

Third. To the Senior B's we reluctantly hand over the beautiful bright and airy home rooms, 101 and 110, which have always been our havens of delight and peace.

Fourth. Again, to these lucky Senior B's we give the inspiring authority and privilege of occupying our former reserved seats at morning exercises—the first few rows, just in front of the stage, in the auditorium.

Fifth. Since we shall no longer have the opportunity of rising to the higher regions of our former home in the powerful and massive elevator controlled by Mr. Tomey, we give and bequeath the entire use of this conveyance to our happy successors, the Senior B's.

Sixth. We bestow upon all concerned our illustrious school paper and the best magazine in the world, The Pivot, which we hope may live to a good old age.

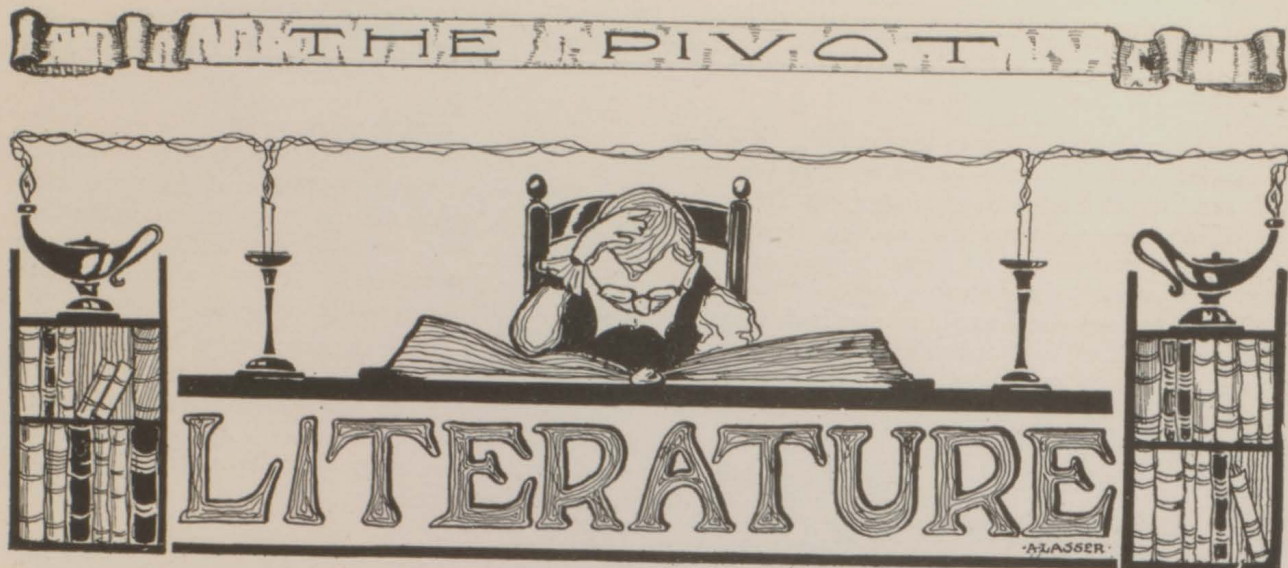

Seventh. We really can't imagine just how dear old C. H. S. is going to exist without us, but we extol our successors to do their very best, and we leave them the magnanimous task of managing all activities as well as we did.

Eighth. In our absence, we give the Senior B's the most agreeable duty of amusing the school every morning by appearing before it on the platform and exhibiting how speedily and accurately they can induce teeth-chattering and knee-knocking.

Ninth. To all those who indulge in foolish errors we bequeath with great pleasure those interesting weeks of detention in 208.

Tenth. We give and bequeath to everybody in C. H. S. the little diversion of enjoying occasional teachers' jokes, especially Professor Webb's, and also Mr. Smith's aesthetic positions on the rostrum, not mentioning his solos.

Marjorie's Misadventure

[A Central High School Story.]

BY MARGUERITE WHITE.

"I warn you, Marjory Page," said her chum, Martha, solemnly, as the two strolled through the corridors of the Central High School one morning en route for a history recitation period, "you are laboring under a profound delusion."

At this unlooked for statement Marjory's eyes widened in surprise, but she refrained from comment until further details should be forthcoming.

"I have a presentiment that something is going to happen," Martha continued with a prophetic air. "I can't explain it, but it exists; and if I were you I'd be most awfully careful."

Marjory looked puzzled and a bit annoyed. "I don't in the least know what you're talking about," she said at length; "but you, I suppose, do. Would you mind throwing me a ray of light? I'm quite in the dark."

"It's about Professor Martin," Martha hastened to explain. "Somehow, he gives me an uneasy feeling. You know he has been known to do things unexpectedly before, and if he should suddenly pop a test—"

"Martha!" Marjory stopped short in sheer horror. "What are you saying? Has he hinted at anything so dreadful? Oh, you surely don't think he would?"

Martha nodded her head slowly, evidently not ill-pleased with the effect her words had produced. "He hasn't said anything yet," she admitted reluctantly, "but I have a sense of impending catastrophe!"

"Is that all?" and Marjory dropped a sigh of relief. "Of course, I don't want to hurt your feelings, Martha, but I know what a dreadful pessimist you are. Now, I'm surfe Professor Martin isn't going to be so unfeeling. He has a steady, plodding disposition that I particularly admire in a man of his calling. I have great hopes of him, really." She pushed the indignant Martha forward. Let's hurry; the bell is about to ring." And they crowded in with a bevy of girls at the door of the classroom."

Now, by way of parenthesis, it may be explained that Marjory Page was one of the most popular girls at Central. It was not her fault, as she half laughing protested, but such was the fact. She was literally showered with invitations of all sorts at all times, and while this popularity was no doubt gratifying to her small vanity, social duties frequently played sad havoc with those of a more serious nature.

For some weeks past, owing to the pressure of many interests, Marjory had not been devoting as much time to the study of history as the central authorities would have deemed needful. However, by a judicious use of the imagination, and a little diplomacy, she had thus far managed to maintain a creditable reputation. Continued success had made her careless, and it was a patronizing little smile that she bestowed upon Martha as the recitation began and proceeded in the usual uneventful fashion.

At the close of the hour the blow fell. "Tomorrow," Professor Martin remarked casually, "we shall have a little test, covering the work we have been over this semester. It will be comprehensive, and I suggest that some careful reviewing will not come amiss." The bell rang, and the class, somewhat dazedly, filed out.

A chastened friend awaited Martha in the doorway.

"Isn't it beastly?" she demanded miserably. "You know, Martha, I simply cannot pass. I shall flunk flat, and Professor Martin will never have a particle of faith in me again—never."

"You have twenty-four hours until tomorrow," Martha suggested comfortingly. "Cut your classes and cram."

Marjory shook her head sadly. "Twenty-four days might help me, but twenty-four hours not at all. I'll have to be desperately ill tomorrow. It isn't a very satisfactory way out, but it's the only way. I dare not face the ordeal."

"I don't want to be nasty," Martha began virtuously, "but I must say, Marjory, it serves you right; you—"

But Marjory waited for no more. She turned precipitously and fled.

The fateful day arrived, and somehow passed. To Marjory, though not for worlds would she have admitted it, it was the longest seeming day of her whole existence. She was troubled by vain regrets and occasional pricks of conscience and the hours dragged interminably.

The next morning, upon her return to the world, she sought out Martha.

"Well," she demanded eagerly, "was it hard? Did you pass?"

Martha looked at her queerly. "No," she said slowly. "It wasn't hard, and I didn't pass."

Marjory frowned. "Don't tease, she commanded impatiently. "I want to hear about it; tell me."

"There's nothing to tell," Martha insisted. "We came into class yesterday, and everything was in apparent readiness for the test. Professor Martin even assigned the advanced lesson and then he looked around and said, 'I want to break this gently; there will be no test today.'"

They stared at each other a moment in blank silence, before the humor of the situation struck Marjory. Then, quite suddenly, she threw back her head and laughed until the tears came.

"You're hysterical," said Martha disapprovingly, as Marjory paused to wipe her eyes. "And, if you ask me, I must say it was your own fault—"

Marjory laid a firm hand over her mouth. "As a prophet, "Martha," she chuckled, "I don't think much of you."

A moment later she added thoughtfully:

"But as a bluffer I begin to suspect that I have a formidable rival in the person of our professor."

Then, still smiling, she sat down and began a vigorous attack upon the pile of work she had missed.

June 16's History

[A Class Ballad.]

BY ELIZABETH V. KENT.

We entered just four years ago,
As Freshies, green as grass;
The school was, oh! so big and new
For grammar lad and lass.

"Six hundred strong" we started out;
But some, 'tis sad to tell,
Their lessons did neglect for fun,
And so behind they fell.

As 1 A's we were cold and proud,
The Freshies were forlorn;
We looked on them with proper awe,
And treated them with scorn.

2 B or not to be 2 B,
We shouted with our might;
Exams were hard, our worries great;
We crammed both day and night.

Hurrah! we've passed, 2 A's we're made,
Our joy was just complete.
But, summer o'er, we longed (?) for work,
And lunch-room things to eat (?).

Jolly Juniors, full of fun,
Was our next name in school;
But with our math we ceased to laugh,
In lab we did not fool.

We found that hard work always paid,
When 3 A's we became;
Still we found time for sociables;
As hosts we earned some fame.

Our 4 B team was big indeed,
And filled with much delight;
To Senior A's we gave a prom,
And danced for half the night.

Our Charlie Smith we chairman made
For two terms joyfully;
And he, with Lillian Hawkins,
Have done their work with glee.

Stern Seniors now, we may look back
On all the pranks we played;
Of course we studied hard, but, then,
Some goodly bluffs we made.

Our principal, teachers, all true gold,
Have made our school so bright,
A place beloved by all of us,
A second home by right.

And when through life our way we take,
We'll always have a smile
For Central, Alma Mater
That made school life worth while.

AT PARTING.

BY MARGUERITE WHITE.

Since June's the month of roses and of song,
A joyous time of blithe, sunshiny days,
We're sorry it must mean to "June Sixteen"
A parting of the ways.

We'd like to halt old Father Time a while,
Were he not so impatient of delays;
The road soon ends, and real regret attends
This parting of the ways.

Yet, far beyond the place where paths diverge,
There is a goal on which we've fixed our gaze;
Our ways lie there and we must bravely bear
The parting of the ways.

The Land of Promise beckons just ahead,
And Duty bids us earn our meed of praise;
Then let us, "June Sixteen," make Hope supreme
At the parting of the ways.

TO SPRING.

BY SOPHIE FOEHL.

Awake, O Spring; bring forth the leaves and flowers
O bring thou back, to fill our solitude,
The lark's clear thrill, the cuckoo's viewless flute
And woodland echoes that have long been mute.

Awake, O Spring; bring forth the leaves and flowers
To garnish hollow glades and forest bowers;
By happy murmurs running thru the grass,
Let us perceive thy footsteps softly pass.

The bright blue waters answer to our call.
Amidst the hollows of the rocks their fall
Makes melody within the forest deep,
O gentle Spring, why ling'rest thou asleep?

AN OLD-FASHIONED GARDEN.

BY MARGUERITE WHITE.

The garden was a place of sheer delight
In early morning when the sun shone bright,
When dew lay sparkling on purple phlox,
And rows of gaily nodding hollyhocks.
There bloomed the loveliest flowers of long ago,
Narcissus, mignonette and golden glow.
What fragrant odors they the soft winds lent,
What messages of cheer and hope they sent;
Each dainty blossom bore a heavenly gift,
Its mission still to gladden and uplift.
This old-time garden was so trimly kept,
No noxious weed within its borders crept;
Quaint ladies strolled its paths with stately grace,

Enchanted as the beauties grew apace;
Majestic butterflies and honey bees,
Seemed wafted in on every passing breeze.
An earthly spot was never more serene,
More favored of the gentle fairy green,
More lovely in the sunset's after glow
Than this old garden of the long ago.

The Prophecy of the Magician

Slowly and mystically he rubbed the ball of glass. Then, with fixed stare, he gazed at the rising smoke. 'Twas the wonderful magician, Professor Class June '16. Suddenly the mist lifted, and in a low, even monotone he announced:

"Behold, my subjects are in various positions and offices. How different from their expectations, in many cases, are their realizations! Come with me and view the scenes."

What is this? Here comes a crowd of white-garbed men, led by a man in a carriage. They are all carrying brooms. Lo, it is the street cleaning brigade, with Raphael Centanni as foreman. Marching in soldierly fashion come his followers, Harry D'Giovanni, Simon Pestunowitz, Charles De Rose, Stephen Paskewicz, Isadore Eskowitz, Ralph Petosa, Harry Pashkow, Earnest Rasnick and Barney Ruderman. Suddenly we halt. We are before the golf club. Lillian Hawkins and Charles Smith are too interested in the game to look up. The scene is Mt. Tabor. We are coming back to the city again, and our wonderful Winfield Angus is running the "injin" on the Erie, while Morris Fenias is the automatic blower of this speed car. On the way we hear the shrill cry of "Raspberries." The hucksters are Joe Wille and Abe Levin. We enter a "movie" house, and there sits Sadie Rudolff playing ragtime at the speed of five miles per hour. Shortly afterwards Mr. Newlywed, in the person of Edwin Blumenthal, enters and then the lights go out and the show begins. Who is that celebrated "movie" star bowing before us? Gaze. It is Irving Stelle. Then appear Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, in reality Hugh Towey and Edna Rohr. But they are not alone. Enter Carolyn Augenstein as a ballet dancer, Dora Edelston as Olga Petrova, and Hannah Deutsch, Edith Miller and Dorothy Siegel as cabaret dancers.

Tired of the movies, we take the trolley to the Metropolitan Opera House. The motorman is Hyman Abramson and the conductor Henry Langammer. Whom did we meet in the lobby but Florence Oneill, a "thin," worried society woman, nervously clinging to the arm of the large and corpulent Charles Schober. Then comes a tall, rawboned, domineering woman, meekly followed by a man. They are Mazie Nevius and Alvin Cassedy. But why all the applause? There stands the wonderful prima donna, Fannie Muller. She is the queen of the play, and the official court jester of the "King of Nowhere" is Rudolph Glickman. In the background hovers the ever attentive Ruth Tlusty, maid of the famous singer. We hear a great commotion in a box near us. "The President of the United States is coming!" It is Raymond Szymanowitz, accompanied by Senator Albert Kroner of Missouri. In the next box is the Billy Sunday of to-day, Louis Auerbacher, accompanied by two ministers, Arthur Jones and Everet Hughes. In another box is Jess Willard Flockhardt, the great fighter, accompanied by the president of the U. S. Steel Corporation, Fred Schadt. At the back of the box stands the latter's valet, Charles Esposito. What a funny combination! Half disheartened, half elated, we make our exit from the opera house. A crowd is standing around an automobile loaded with suffragists. They are Mary Adubato, Fannie Bear, Sophie Foehl and Augusta Eskowitz. On the other side of the street are some stump speakers for the Socialist party, including William Cohen, Eli Frankel, Abe Isserman and William Seff. Gathered around these personages are Joseph Kiell, the spendthrift; John Groel and William Derrick, the wonderful elocutionists; William Jenkins, the happy-go-lucky Carl Burgesser, the town masher; and Joseph Susskind, the Charlie Chaplin of the streets. Around the suffragists are gathered Ruth Comes and Ruth Hawthorne, as old school teachers; Jeannette Reich, a historian in the College of Quintessence; Everet Wright and Theodore Koerner, two old scholarly professors; and Jacob Heller, David Ravitz and Charles Trachtenberg, salesmen for the Encyclopedia Britannica.

We next start for the business section in a taxi driven by Albert Haring. We note the following signs: "John Roalefs, Barber"; "Frank Pollard, Chiropodist"; "August Streuning, Butcher"; "Marguerite White, Secretarial School"; "Jacco Weiss, Iceman," and "Sickel, Schleicher Co., Artists." We enter the studio of the latter firm, and find seated four models. Imagine our astonishment. They are Charles Durr, Joseph Walsh, Edith Hefeale and Helen Gubelman! Adjoining the studio is a sign, "Cloaks and Suits Exhibited." We enter. There stand Elsie Lushear, Minnie Ungerleider, and Amelia Joyce, as cloak models. We beat a hasty retreat and enter a large office. There are seven dashing typists, whom we recognize as Lena Cohn, Margaret Coburn, Helen Friedman, Haskell Margeum, Blanche Wheelright, Josephine Kiernan, and Winifried Marcell. It is the office of Otto Arotowsky, the superintendent of the New York Foundling Home. Adjoining this office is that of Bernhardt Bruns, the dimple doctor. He is complacently teaching Dorothy Lehman to smile. We back out of that room into another marked "Miriam Lewis, Matrimonial Agency." Seated behind the desk is a thin, angular woman, whom we, with great difficulty, recognize as the proprietor. Standing in front of her are some applicants, whom we recognize as Catherine Leahy, Rebecca Esenstein, Lillian Ledgard, Minnie Kaplan, George Cohn, Fred Schaefer, Alexander Starr, and Albert Steeber. On the other side of the room is "Merle Darling's Employment

CLASS OF JUNE '16

Autographs

ABRAMSON, HYMAN D.,

171 Spruce Street

General German. Prospects: Business.

Silence is as great an art as speech.

Webster-Hayne (5, 6).

Abramson is a rather quiet chap and not given to boasting. He is a hard worker and we know he has the making of a successful business man.

ANGUS, WINFIELD SCOTT,

111 South Eighth Street

Special Course. Prospects: Dartmouth.

Actions speak more loudly than words.

Track Team (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Captain (8), Cross Country (1, 3, 5, 7), Captain (3), G. O. Delegate of 4-A Class (8), A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8).

Angus, commonly known as "Injun," has distinguished himself on the track. He is Central's crack runner and is the happy possessor of many championship titles. His graduation will mean a heavy loss to the school's athletic prowess.

ARATOWSKY, OTTO,

516 South Thirteenth Street

General. Prospects: University of Pennsylvania.

Health and cheerfulness mutually beget each other.

Track Team (8), Barnstormers (8), A. A. (6, 7, 8), Camera Club (8).

Otto is one of our silent wise men (more silent than wise). Like Bismarck, "He can be silent in seven languages." But he has an "ever-ready" smile, and his red cheeks are the envy and admiration of the opposite sex.

AUERBACHER, LOUIS,

76 North Ninth Street

General Latin. Prospects: Columbia.

To be great is to be misunderstood.

PIVOT (5, 6, 7, 8), Editor-in-Chief (8), Editor-in-Chief of the Handbook (7, 8), Cheer Leader (7, 8), Central Service (5, 6, 7, 8), Vice-President (8), Barnstormers (7, 8), Webster-Hayne (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Sergeant-at-Arms (5), President (6), Treasurer (7).

Louis is one of the "big" boys of our class, in scholarship, service, and stature. He has been a prominent figure in many activities of his Alma Mater and is now editor-in-chief of the school paper. He loves to argue, but we may forgive this trait when we understand he is to be a lawyer. He has always had Central's best interests at heart. "Clean up Central" is Louis's motto.

AUGENSTEIN, CAROLYN,

193 North Eleventh Street

3 Year Student.

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

Thy modesty's a candle to thy merit.

W. W. (7, 8), Clionia (8), Tennis Club (8), Secretary (8).

"Carrie" is one of those quiet girls of whom there is little to say. She has devoted herself very conscientiously to her studies and has only recently entered into club activities.

BEAR, FANNIE E.,

110 Sherman Avenue

3 Year Student.

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm.

Girls' A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6), Girls' Basketball Team (3, 5), W. W. (3, 4, 5, 6), Secretary (5), Vice-President (6), Clionia Literary (5, 6), Barnstormers (5, 6), Girls' Service (5, 6), PIVOT (5, 6), Handbook Staff (5, 6), W. W. Debating Team (5), "Der Knopf" (6), Scholarship Prize (5, 6).

Fannie came into prominence through her ability to debate. She has school spirit in overwhelming quantities. Fannie is one of our very clever girls. She is both a good student and a leader in many school activities.

BLUMENTHAL, EDWARD,

86 Seymour Avenue

3½ Year Student.

Special Course. Prospects: University of Pennsylvania.

I awoke one morning and found myself famous.

Webster-Hayne (8), Central Service (8).

"Eddie" got through in 3½ years. How? We do not know, but we have to give him credit. Blumenthal became famous the day some one invented the ejaculation, "Hey, Eddie."

BRUNS, BERNHARD H.,

371 South Orange Avenue

General German. Prospects: Cornell.

Happy am I; from care I'm free.

Although Bruns has never entered into school activities, his cheerful smile and his dimples have won him many friends. We will always remember him as a proficient German student.

BURGESSER, CARL,

22 Isabella Avenue

General German. Prospects: Business.

He that hath learned to obey will know how to command.

Orchestra (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Mandolin Club (7, 8), G. O. Delegate (8), Barnstormers (7, 8), A. A. (7, 8), Tennis Club (8), G. O. Delegate (8).

"Dip" Burgess is the gentleman who plays the "magic flute" in the orchestra. He is very industrious and earnest. Carl is well liked for his cheerfulness.

CASSEDY, ALVAN,

19 St. Paul Avenue

General. Prospects: Rutgers.

Nothing is impossible to industry.

PIVOT (2, 8), Technical Club (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), President (8), Rifle Club (6, 7, 8), G. O. Delegate Rifle Club (8), Barnstormers (8), A. A. (5, 6, 7, 8), W. W. (8), Central Service (8).

As chairman of our "Prom" and dance committees Alvan's commendable work has brought him into the limelight. He has also gained recognition along technical lines, and we feel sure that he will be successful in his chosen profession.

COBURN, MARGARET,

364 Summer Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: Normal School.

Cheerful company makes short miles.

Margaret is a pretty, light-hearted girl. She is one of our athletes and is very well liked in the class because of her friendly manner.

COHEN, GEORGE,

222 Central Avenue

3½ Year Student.

Commercial German. Prospects: New York Dental College.

Reading maketh a full man.

Basketball (5, 7), Central Service (5, 6, 7), Clionia Literary (5, 6), A. A. (5, 6, 7, 8), Baseball (8).

George Cohen is one of the big men of the class; that is, in size. He is a good-natured fellow and is well liked by his classmates. He has worked hard for the welfare of Central.

COHEN, WILLIAM,

222 Central Avenue

General. Prospects: Rutgers.

He who serves well need not fear for his future.

Webster-Hayne (6, 7, 8), Math. Club (5, 6, 7, 8), Central Service (8).

William, or "Roosevelt," as he is commonly called, is a studious chap, like his brother. He is prominent in debating circles.

COHN, LENA,

113 Charlton Street

General German. Prospects: Normal School.

She doeth well who doeth her best.

W. W. (6, 7, 8), Barnstormers (8).

We are always aware of Lena's presence by her incessant chatter. Lena is active in girls' athletics.

COMES, RUTH H.

14 Geneva Street

General. Prospects: Normal School.

A happy heart makes a blooming visage.

Girls' Service (7, 8), Girls' A. A. (2, 3, 4), Clionia Literary (7, 8).

Ruth is one of our quiet, pleasant, and obliging girls. At chemistry she is a star and is not far behind this standard in her other studies. We predict that Ruth will make an excellent school teacher.

COOMBES, WALLACE,

36 Pierce Street

General German. Prospects: Business.

On their own merits modest men are dumb.

Mathematics Club (8), Shorthand Team (8).

"Wally" is a quiet fellow and has not participated in school activities to a great extent, owing to outside duties. He is a hard worker and will be a success in the business world.

DARLING, MERLE,

906 Bergen Street

Commercial. Prospects: N. Y. U.

Character and intellect go hand in hand.

Central Service (7, 8), Camera Club (6, 7).

Merle is a pensive, studious fellow and a good worker. He is well liked by all his classmates. Merle has been in Central but one year, coming from the Binghamton (N. Y.) High School.

DE ROSE, CHARLES,

83 Webster Street

Technical. Prospects: Undecided.

The work praises the workman.

Dante Literary (8).

Charles is technically inclined and has made many useful articles in our shops. For a pastime he composes music.

DERRICK, WILLIAM,

34 Crittenden Street

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

He makes no friend who never made a foe.

Rifle Club (7, 8), Centro Castellano (8).

Little can be said about "Bill," as he has not been active in Central, except as an ardent supporter of the Rifle Club and one of its best riflemen. In his studies he has been a hard worker.

DURR, CHARLES,

95 Chadwick Avenue

Technical. Prospects: Undecided.

A faultless body and a blameless mind.

Central Service (3, 4, 5), Wireless Club (2, 8), Camera Club (3), PIVOT (4, 5, 6), Technical Club (8), Rifle Club (6, 7), Baseball Manager (8), A. A. (4, 5, 6, 7, 8).

Durr has been quite active in the clubs of Central. He is one of those fellows that are popular with both boys and girls. Mathematical and chemical weaknesses seem to be his chief ailments, but his efficiency as a baseball manager appears to be an antidote for these.

EDELSTON, DORA, 76 Sixteenth Avenue

General German. Prospects: Normal School.

Sweet are the slumbers of the virtuous.

Although Dora has done nothing in the line of club activities, she is a very studious girl. We regret that she has not mingled with us to a greater extent.

EISENSTEIN, REBECCA J. 281 Bergen Street

General German. Prospects: Normal School.

To be content with little is true happiness.

Girls' A. A. (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), W. W. (7, 8), Webster-Hayne (8), Barnstormers (8).

Rebecca is another quiet girl. She is active, though, in school clubs, and takes an interest in everything that concerns the school. We wish her well in her future vocation.

ESCHENFELDER, ANDREW, 12 Laurel Place

Technical. Prospects: Rutgers.

A grain of prudence is worth a pound of craft.

Barnstormers (7, 8), Cross Country (7), A. A. (6, 7, 8).

Andrew has done little in the school clubs, but he has striven to become a runner for Central's glory. He has a retiring disposition and is well liked by all.

ESKOWITZ, AUGUSTA, 18 Sayre Street

Commercial. Prospect: Business.

Patience is a plaster for all souls.

W. W. (6, 7, 8), Clionia Literary (6, 7, 8), Barnstormers (8).

Augusta is one of our cleverest girl debators. She is, besides, a very good typist. We wish her great success in the business world.

ESKOWITZ, ISADOR,

18 Sayre Street

Technical. Prospects: Columbia.

Industry is the parent of success.

W. W. (3, 4), Orchestra (3), Mathematics (8).

Another of our shy members is Isador. But he has succeeded in his studies, and that is the thing that counts.

FLOCKHART, JOHN S.,

40 Hazelwood Avenue

Technical. Prospects: Stevens Institute.

Silence is more eloquent than words.

Track Team (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Football Team (3, 5, 7), Captain (7), Technical Club (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Sergeant-at-Arms 4-A Class (8), A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8).

Flockhart, although very quiet, is a worker and an athlete. He has helped Central bring home many of her laurels, and we are sure he will win many more in later years.

FOEHL, SOPHIE,

12 Gouverneur Street

General German. Prospects: Normal School

Whatever anyone does or says, I must be good.

Girls' A. A. (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Webster-Hayne (3), W. W. (7, 8).

Sophie has aspired to be a debater, but has attempted little in other school activities. Nevertheless, her scholarship record speaks for itself.

FRANKEL, ELI,

66 Morton Street

General German. Prospects: Rutgers.

Speech is the gift of all, but the thought of few.

A. A. (6, 7, 8), Webster-Hayne (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Math. Club (5, 6, 7, 8), Clionia Literary (8), Barnstormers (7, 8) Captain Interscholastic Debating Team (8).

Frankel is a strong debater, and we imagine that some day he will be either a great lawyer or a stump speaker. Stick to it, Eli, and for our sake as well as your own, become the former.

THE PIVOT

FRIEDMAN, HELEN,

25 Montgomery Street

General German. Prospects: Normal School.

Short and sweet.

Girls' A. A. (8).

Helen's list of activities is rather short, and so is Helen. Imagine our little girl a school teacher. But never mind; we are sure success is waiting for you with open arms.

GLICKMAN, RUDOLPH,

185 Fairmount Avenue

General. Prospects: New York Dental College.

A little nonsense now and then is relished by the wisest men.

Central Service (6, 7, 8), Treasurer (7), President (8), Webster-Hayne (5, 6, 7, 8), G. O. Delegate (6), President (7), Delegate to Rutgers Inter-Scholastic Debating League (8), G. O. Delegate 4-B Class (7).

Glickman has been prominent in many activities, especially debating. But, as a dentist, we think he will become still more prominent. His work for the school is not his only asset. His everlasting good humor and ready wit have made him a general favorite in the class, and will make him popular in his chosen profession.

GROEL, JOHN,

15 Isabella Avenue

Special Course. Prospects: Rutgers.

Our deeds are sometimes better than our thoughts.

Camera Club (6, 7), Webster-Hayne (6, 7, 8), A. A. (7, 8), Central Service Club (7, 8), Senior Pivot (8), PIVOT (8), Barnstormers (7, 8), Mandolin Club (7, 8), Rifle Club (8), Business Staff "Amazons" (8).

John has quite a heavy list of activities. He has a very pleasing personality and a great number of friends. During the past term John has shown a marked interest in a certain person.

GUBELMAN, HELEN E.,

757 Bergen Street

3 Year Student.

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

Virtue and happiness are mother and daughter.

Girls' Service (2, 3, 4, 5, 6), Vice-President (6), Webster-Hayne (3, 4, 5, 6), Barnstormers (4, 5, 6), Girls' A. A. (2, 3, 4, 5, 6).

Note the long list of activities and the fact that Helen is a three year student. And yet Helen has always time to flash her winsome smile and toss her golden hair. Her picture was uppermost in our minds as we read "The Rape of the Lock," but we hope that no such terrible catastrophe may ever befall her. Helen combines beauty and brains, and is a hard and earnest worker for the school.

THE PIVOT

HAWKINS, LILLIAN K., 101 Eleventh Avenue
VICE-PRESIDENT OF CLASS.

General German. Prospects: Normal School.

Age cannot wither her, nor custom stale her infinite variety.

PIVOT 5, 6, 7, 8), Associate Editor (7, 8), Associate Editor SENIOR PIVOT (8), Girls' Service (7, 8), Clionia Literary (7, 8), Glee Club (1, 2, 3), Japanese Operetta (2), Scholarship Prize (6), Vice-President 4-B Class (7), Vice-President 4-A Class (8).

Lillian is one of the most popular girls in our class. Her charming personality and fair complexion have won her a cozy place in the hearts of all. "Lil" has not neglected her studies, either, for she can be seen wearing one of those pretty gold scholarship pins, for which she worked very diligently.

HAWTHORNE, RUTH, 93 Sunset Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: Normal School.

A pretty face wins the case.

Girls' Service Club (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Barnstormers (8).

A very quiet and reserved girl is Ruth. She is anxious, though, to benefit the school in as many ways as possible, and is a worthy addition to the class.

HEFELE, EDITH, 11 Heller Place

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

Is she not passing fair?

Although Edith has partaken in no school activities, she is very popular because of her pleasing face and her merry ways. Edith has done some excellent needlework.

HELLER, JACOB, 118 Sixteenth Avenue

General. Prospects: N. Y. U.

A small spark makes a great fire.

Central Service (7, 8), Clionia Literary (8), Math. Club (8), Webster-Hayne (8), W. W. (5).

Heller is a fellow who has loomed up during his senior year. He has ability, and it is to be regretted that he waited so long before showing us what he really could do. He is a forceful debater and a mathematician of no mean ability.

HUGHES, EVERETT J., 110 Bloomfield Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

Modesty is virtue.

Glee Club (2, 3), Minstrel Show (3).

"Doc" is a fellow who has some very fine qualities; but, unfortunately, he has not come out and shown them to us. He made a fine start in the Glee Club and White Minstrels, and then dropped off. However, he has the making of a successful business man.

ISSERMAN, ABRAHAM, 34 Brientnall Place

General. Prospects: Rutgers.

And let him be sure to allow other men their turn to speak.

Webster-Hayne (3, 4, 5, 6), Vice-President (5), Sergeant-at-Arms (6), W. W. (7, 8), Secretary (8), Math. Club (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Secretary (6), Clionia Literary (5, 6, 7, 8), Barnstormers (7, 8), Tennis Club (8), PIVOT (8), SENIOR PIVOT (8).

Abe is our class egotist. His opinions are always positively positive and usually expressed loudly enough for everybody to hear. He is usually ready for a fight, provided it is of the verbal variety. But although Abe spends much time in argument, he is well liked.

JENKINS, WM. H., JR., 125 Park Avenue

Commercial German. Prospects: N. Y. U.

I am slow of study.

To us, Willie, Jr., seems to be a rather quiet lad with a propensity toward bashfulness. To those who know him intimately he is a very jovial fellow. He has been inactive in school affairs because of lack of time (so he says).

JONES, ARTHUR, 17 Burnett Street

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

As gentle as a lamb.

Camera Club (8), A. A. (8).

Although Athur has done little for his class and school, he has probably made up for this in his studies.

JOYCE, AMELIA, 81 Pennsylvania Avenue

General German. Prospects: Pratt Institute.

Diligence is the mother of good fortune.

Girls' Service (6, 7), Glee Club (1, 2).

Although Amelia has not been very active in the clubs of the school, she has been industrious along other lines, particularly in her studies. Her scholarship record will suffice to prove this. We expect to hear great things from you, Amelia.

KAPLAN, MINNIE, 448 Washington Street

3½ Year Student.

Commercial. Prospects: Normal School.

One may live and learn.

Minnie is another one of those girls of whom there is very little to say. She has always attended strictly to her studies and never mingled with us. Hence this short write-up.

KENNEDY, RUSSELL J., 181 Sussex Avenue

Commercial German. Prospects: Business.

Men of few words are the best men.

Mathematics Club (8).

Russell, because of his solemnity, was nicknamed "Deacon." He is one of the quietest chaps of the class. Russell devotes much of his time to printing. We are sure that he will succeed in business.

KENT, ELIZABETH, 85 Heller Parkway

General. Prospects: Scudder School for Social Secretaries.

The right girl in the right place.

Girls' Service Club (5, 6, 7, 8), Webster-Hayne (6, 7, 8), Vice-President (8), Clonia Literary (7), Cast "Twelfth Night" (8), Cast of "Amazons" (8), Barnstormers (8), SENIOR PIVOT (8), Cartoonist Club (8), Secretary (8).

Bessie is a sociable and jovial girl. She has been a good student and a loyal classmate, and we wish her hearty success in her chosen profession. Only recently we discovered that Bessie has dramatic ability.

THE PIVOT

KIERNAN, JOSEPHINE,

10 Coeyman Street

3 Year Student.

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

The secret of her success is constancy to purpose.

Josephine, or "Jo," as she is familiarly known, is one of our three-year students. This explains why she has not partaken in many activities while at Central. "Jo" is very obliging and is always willing to do a fellow a good turn.

KOERNER, THEODORE,

14 Quitman Street

Commercial German. Prospects: Rutgers.

Few things are impossible to diligence and skill.

Central Service (7, 8), SENIOR PIVOT (8), Math. Club (5, 6, 7, 8), Secretary (7), Vice-President (8), Webster-Hayne (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), A. A. (8), Executive Committee of G. O. (8), Secretary (8).

By all the members of the class Theodore is considered a most pleasing and obliging companion. He is exceptionally bright, especially in the line of mathematics, so we expect him to be a prominent professor some day.

KRAUSS, WILLIAM E.,

588 South Eleventh Street

General German. Prospects: Cornell.

A tender heart, a will inflexible.

A. A. (1, 2), Math. Club (8).

William is one of those jovial fellows whom folks just naturally like. He not only performs his work at school faithfully, but holds a position in the Public Library after school, which keeps him rather busy. We can see nothing but success for William.

KRONER, ALBERT J.,

1105 Borad Street

Commercial. Prospects: Government Chemist.

As busy as a bee.

Math. Club (8), Glee Club (1, 2, 3), Camera Club (5, 6, 7, 8), Wireless Club (8).

Albert is a faithful music pupil. We don't know what we'd do without the presence of his smiling face on the platform every morning. Kroner is also a star at chemistry. He gets along very well with everybody.

LEAHY, KATHRYN,

39 Newark Street

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

Blushing is the color of virtue.

Clionia Literary (7, 8), Barnstormers (8), W. W. (6, 7, 8).

We only hope that Kathryn's anticipated business career will not dim the brightness of her sunny face, for she is always happy. We consider her one of the most likeable girls in the class.

LEDGARD, LILLIAN,

203 Woodside Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: Boston Conservatory.

Thoughtful of others.

Glee Club (1, 2).

Lillian has always been a studious worker, but she has never tried to become one of us. She has neglected activities to devote her time to studies.

LEHMANN, DOROTHY,

770 South Twelfth Street

General German. Prospects: Business.

An honest laborer, who bears a lovely face.

Girls' Service (6, 7, 8), Girls' A. A. (3, 4), Barnstormers (8), Penmanship Club (7, 8).

Considering the businesslike way in which Dorothy manages things, we are sure she will succeed in her chosen vocation. But she is not all business. If you would like to know what a true friend and delightful companion "Dot" is, just ask Marguerite.

LEVIN, ABRAHAM,

73A Thirteenth Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: N. Y. U.

Business makes a man as well as tries him.

Business Manager PIVOT (3, 4, 5, 6, 7), Central Service (3, 4, 5, 6), Commercial Club (3, 4, 5), A. A. (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Business Manager SENIOR PIVOT (4, 5, 6, 7), Manager Central Meet (6).

Abe has a great business head, and has helped greatly with the financial and managerial ends of the various school activities. He has had little time to attend to other affairs.

LEWIS, MIRIAM,

196 South Tenth Street

General German. Prospects: Normal School.

Principle is ever my motto; not expediency.

Vice-President G. O. (6), Clionia Literary (6, 7, 8), President (7, 8), Girls' Service (6, 7, 8), Treasurer (8), Glee Club (1, 2, 3), Japanese Operetta (2), Prom. Committee (7).

Miriam is the best all-around girl in the class. She has always been liked, and because of her good work has become very popular. Central will be minus a great deal when she leaves, for she has been connected with almost everything that has gone on in the school.

LOWENBERG, WILLIAM,

243 Second Avenue

General. Prospects: N. Y. U.

The dwarf sees farther than the giant.

William is the smallest boy in the class and still wears knickerbockers. Because of his size he has earned the name of "Peanuts." He has participated in no school activities, his time having been devoted to his lessons and outside secretarial duties.

LUSHEAR, ELSIE,

370 South Twelfth Street

General German. Prospects: Dr. Savage's School.

Silence is the mother of truth.

We very seldom hear Elsie, but she is a very appreciative listener, and this is sometimes considered much better. Perhaps it is a case of "still waters running deep."

MARGERUM, HASKELL,

170 Wahsington Street

Commercial. Prospects: Nurses' Training School.

Conspicuous by her absence.

Barnstormers (8).

Haskell is of the retiring, studious type. She has chosen nursing for her profession, so all we can do is to wish her the best of fortune.

MILLER, EDITH STEWART, 57 Charlton Street

Commercial German. Prospects: Dr. Savage's School.

No legacy is so rich as honesty.

Girls' A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), President (8), Girls' Basketball Team (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), PIVOT (8).

From Edith's list of activities one can see that she is athletically inclined. In fact, is one of the leaders along this line. We feel certain that Edith will succeed in her profession as a physical instructor.

MULLER, FANNIE, 364 Littleton Avenue

General German. Prospects: Cornell.

A little body often harbors a great soul.

Girls' A. A. (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Barnstormers (6, 7, 8), W. W. (7), Clionia Literary (7, 8), Scholarsh p Prize (7).

Fannie is one of the best liked little high school chums. She is very vivacious and active, not only in her social activities, but also in her studies. She receives some of the highest marks obtained by any person in Central. We all sincerely wish her success and happiness.

NEVIUS, MAZIE, 20 John Street

General German. Prospects: Dr. Savage's School.

Girls' Service (5, 6, 7), Girls' A. A. (2, 3, 4).

Patience is a necessary ingredient of genius.

Mazie is one of our best all-round girls. However, athletics seems to be her natural calling, and we know she has chosen well in deciding to become a physical instructor.

ONEILL, FLORENCE, 52 North Sixth Street

SECRETARY OF THE CLASS.

General German. Prospects: Pratt Institute.

Patience and gentleness is power.

Clionia Literary (7, 8), Secretary (8), Girls' A. A. (2, 3, 4), G. O. Executive Committee (8), Secretary of Class (8).

"Flossie" is one of the cleverest girls in the class. She is bubbling over with school spirit. Florence is always ready to greet one with a smile, and for this reason she has become very popular.

THE PIVOT

PASHKOW, HARRY,

589 Hunterdon Street

3½ Year Student.

General German. Prospects: N. Y. Dental College.

A willing mind makes a light foot.

Basketball (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Central Service (7, 8), Mathematics Club (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), A. A. (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8).

Pashkow is a fine fellow and has become prominent in basketball and in the Mathematics Club. In these activities he has always been a consistent worker. He is also to be commended for completing his course in three and one-half years.

POLLARD, FRANK,

41 Gould Avenue

General German. Prospects: Rutgers.

As merry as a cricket.

Glee Club (1, 2), White Minstrels (2), Mandolin Club (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), President (7, 8), Secretary 4-B Class (7), Rifle Club (7, 8), Technical Club (7, 8), Wireless Club (6), Webster-Hayne (8), Barnstormers (8), PIVOT (7, 8), SENIOR PIVOT (8), Cheer Leader (7, 8), Central Service (7, 8), A. A. (7, 8), Math. Club (8), Tennis Club (8).

Frank is a fellow who has become popular among all of us, especially with the ladies. Good-natured, polite, clever, studious (?), noisy are a few things we can say about Frank's magnetic personality.

RASNICK, ERNEST,

184 Howard Street

Commercial. Prospects: Forestry.

Though he was rough he was kindly.

Basketball (8), Central Service (8), Math. Club (8), A. A. (6, 7, 8).

Rasnick is one of our brightest basketball stars and an athletic enthusiast. He is also a star wrestler, and willing to "Rassle" anything but homework. Ernest is not a very liberal mixer, but among those who know him he is called "a good fellow."

RAVITZ, DAVID,

36 Barclay Street

3½ Year Student.

Commercial. Prospects: N. Y. U.

Wise men are instructed by reason.

Central Service (7, 8), W. W. (6, 7, 8), Math. Club (7, 8), Secretary (8).

Ravitz has combined studies with club activities. We know him as a hard worker and an excellent student. With the standard he has set while at Central, we can predict nothing but a brilliant career for him.

THE PIVOT

ROALEFS, JOHN, 138 Fourth Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

Gentle of speech, beneficent of mind.

Rifle Club (7, 8), PIVOT (8), Glee Club (2, 3), Central Serice (8).

Roalefs, a very active and clever boy, is always "on the go." He has been connected with many clubs in Central, taking part in their activities. He is also an expert on parliamentary law. Don't forget, John, there are to be many more Presidential elections after the one next fall.

ROHR, EDNA L., 34 Monmouth Street

General German. Prospects: Pratt Institute.

Still waters run deep.

PIVOT (5, 6, 7), SENIOR PIVOT (8), Clionia Literary (6, 7, 8), Secretary (7), Girls' A. A. (2, 3, 4).

Edna is a demure little lassie with a winning smile. To the casual observer she is very quiet, but with friends she often lives up to her last name. She has done some fine work in the sewing department, but her activities have not been entirely confined to that branch of work. "Central leads and others follow" has been her motto, for in scholarship Edna has indeed been a leader.

ROLERFORT, LOUIS, 23 Orleans Street

General. Prospects: Business College.

Every cloud has a silver lining.

Centrol Castellano (8), A. A. (3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8).

Although Rolerfort has not been active in many clubs, we know he has ability from his marked interest in the A. A. He is an obliging sort of fellow, and we believe this quality will help him to success in the business world.

RUDOLFF, SADIE, 33 East Fairmount Avenue

Special Course. Prospects: Music.

Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast.

Sadie is a rather quiet and reserved girl, who has made herself conspicuous by her absence from class meetings. We presume her time has been occupied by her musical talents.

SCHADT, FRED, 708 South 15th Street
 Commercial German. Prospects: Business.
An honest man, close button'd to the chin.
 Mathematics Club (8).

A boy of whom we cannot speak at length is Fred. A good student and a good fellow is all we can say. Why did you not interest yourself in the activities of our school, Fred?

SCHAEFER, FRED, 51 Jacobs Street
 General German. Prospects: Pratt Institute.
You may trust him in the dark.

A. A. (2, 3, 7, 8), Glee Club (2, 3), White Minstrels (4), Wireless Club (5), Cross Country Team (7), Assistant Manager Basketball Team (8), Manager Track Team (8).

Fred is a studious boy. He, however, showed his school spirit by going out for the track team. Keep up the good work you are doing and we feel sure you will win success in the business you are going to enter.

SCHLEICHER, EMMA, 615 South 13th Street
 Technical. Prospects: Undecided.
I would help others out of a fellow feeling.
 Girls' Service (7, 8).

Our little girl is Emma. She is just a "bundle" of good nature and smiles. Emma keeps everyone wide awake with her unexpected answers and retorts. We wish we had more of your disposition, Emma.

SCHOBBER, CHARLES, 23 Columbia Avenue
TREASURER OF CLASS.

General German. Prospects: Business.
What you do yourself is well done.

A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), President (8), President G. O. (8), Baseball Team (2, 4, 6, 8), Captain (8), Football (3, 5, 7), Secretary and Treasurer Rifle Club (6, 7, 8), Central Service Club (3, 4, 5), Technical Club (8).

Schober has the spirit we like to see. He is one of our best all around athletes. He is modest and well liked by everyone. His popularity in school is shown by his honorary positions of President of G. O. and Treasurer of our Class.

SEFF, WILLIAM,

92 Brunswick Street

3½ Year Student.

General Latin. Prospects: University of Pennsylvania.

Small brooks make the greatest noise.

PIVOT (7), SENIOR PIVOT (8), Webster-Hayne (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Treasurer (8), Clionia Literary (8), Tennis Club (5, 6, 8), Inter-Society Debate (7), Corner Club (4, 5, 6, 7), Barnstormers (8).

"Willie" Seff is a very good debater. He works very hard for the benefit of our school and class. Seff got thru in 3½ years, but he doesn't want anyone to know it. He is studious, but hates to admit it.

SICKEL, COOPER,

21 Camp Street

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

A little wit will serve a fortunate man.

PIVOT (5, 6, 7, 8), SENIOR PIVOT (8), Central Service (7, 8), Rifle Club (7, 8).

Cooper has repeatedly shown his worth by his clever cartoons drawn for our school paper. He is well liked by the students for his good nature and helping hand.

SIEGAL, DOROTHY,

331 South Sixth Street

3½ Year Student.

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

Kindness is wisdom.

Girls' Service (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Webster-Hayne (7), W. W. (5, 6), Barnstormers, (6, 7), PIVOT (6, 7), SENIOR PIVOT (7), Girls' A. A. (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7), Girls' Basketball Team (4, 6), Glee Club (2, 3), Executive Committee G. O. (8).

Dorothy is one of our best all-around girls. Besides being a star athlete, she is our champion stenotypist. Dorothy, because of her willingness to help at all times, has become very popular in the class.

SMITH, CHARLES H.,

Mt. Tabor, N. J.

PRESIDENT OF THE CLASS.

General German. Prospects: Stevens Institute.

Never idle a moment.

Editor-in-Chief SENIOR PIVOT (8), PIVOT (6, 7, 8), Cross Country Team (5, 7), Manager Basketball (7, 8), A. A. (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), G. O. Delegate (8), Treasurer (8), President 4-B Class (7), President 4-A Class (8).

"Charlie" is brimming over with class spirit. His work as presiding officer of the class has been constant and untiring. He has also been instrumental in making our school paper a success. Always good-natured and willing to help, he will be remembered as the most popular fellow of our class.

STARR, IRVING C.,

144 Elm Street

Commercial. Prospects: Banking.

In his duty prompt at every call.

W. W. (7, 8), Central Service (8), Baseball Team (8), A. A. (8), Tennis Club (8).

Starr is hardly as conspicuous as his name might lead one to expect, but has done excellent work. He appears to be tremendously in earnest, and his chances for success are exceptional.

STEEBER, ALBERT F.,

148½ Elizabeth Avenue

General German. Prospects: Business.

Studious of ease, and fond of humble things.

A. A. (7, 8), W. W. (7, 8).

Here is another of those people who are seldom in the limelight. We have reason to believe that Steeber has some excellent qualities, despite his lack of prominence.

STELLE, IRVING M.,

10 Foster Street

General. Prospects: Normal School.

The man that loves and laughs must sure do well.

Central Service (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Webster-Hayne (6, 7, 8), Camera Club (5, 6, 7, 8), President (7, 8), Glee Club (2, 3), Executive Committee of G. O. (6), Barnstormers (5, 6, 7, 8), Business Manager "Amazons" (8), White Minstrels (5), Business Staff "She Stoops to Conquer" (6), Rifle Club (6), Math. Club (5, 6).

Stelle is one of the most popular fellows of the school, especially with the 1-B girls. He is a good business manager, and has the qualifications of a successful actor.

STREUNING, AUGUST F.,

417 South Seventh Street

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

His wants but few, his wishes all confined.

Camera Club (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Centro Castellano (8).

August is among the few boys of our class who, absorbed in their duties, give little time to outside activities. We hope in the future he will mingle more with his associates.

SUSSKIND, JOSEPH,

36 Jones Street

Technical. Prospects: Undecided.

The ladies call him "cute."

Camera Club (5), W. W. (6, 7, 8), Sergeant-at-Arms (8), Clionia Literary (8), Math. Club (7, 8), President (8), Central Service (8).

Joe's countenance is always adorned with a smile. We know him as a happy sort of a fellow. He is a good student, and has also been active in the school organizations. The Mathematics Club has made much progress under his leadership.

SZYMANOWITZ, RAYMOND,

130 Sherman Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: Cooper Union.

Wise to resolve and patient to perform.

PIVOT (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Barnstormers (7, 8), Central Service (6, 7, 8).

Ray has been an ardent worker on the business staff of the PIVOT. This has taken up a great deal of his time and energy, and accounts for his not taking part in more of the activities of the school. He has a pleasing personality and is always ready to offer a helping hand. These qualities will help him win success in later life. Much credit is due Szymanowitz for his untiring work in making this issue a success financially.

TOWEY, HUGH,

34 Nelson Place

General. Prospects: University of Pennsylvania.

Happy men shall have many friends.

Barnstormers (8), Rifle Club (8), Basketball (8), Baseball Team (8), Orchestra (7, 8), A. A. (7, 8), Vice-President (8).

Towey is one of our late arrivals, coming from Seton Hall. He is a star at basketball and baseball. His services as a fiddler have been an asset to our orchestra. He is also a rival of Vernon Castle. As a side line Hugh spends his time posing as "Robert Treat."

TRACHTENBERG, CHARLES,

219 South Tenth Street

3½ Year Student.

General Latin. Prospects: N. Y. U.

Full of courtesy and full of craft.

Math. Club (5, 7), Cartoonist Club (8).

Trachtenberg is one of those silence-is-golden fellows. He rarely says much, but what he does say is worth while and right to the point. We regret that he has not been more active, as his work would have been valuable in whatever line he applied himself.

UNGERLIEDER, MINNIE,

14 Somerset Street

General. Prospects: Normal School.

She hath a daily beauty in her life.

Minnie is a rather pretty, dark-eyed girl. She has, unfortunately, not made herself known in the clubs of the school, but she has a reputation for friendliness.

WALSH, JOSEPH,

120 South Eleventh Street

Technical. Prospects: Lafayette.

With now and then, struck smartly, shows a spark.

Technical Club (5, 6, 7, 8), Secretary (7), Rifle Club (7, 8), President (7, 8), Assistant Manager Football (7), A. A. (7, 8), Secretary (8).

Walsh, it is apparent, has interested himself in Central's clubs, and we commend him upon his show of school spirit. His list of activities is eloquent in itself.

WEISS, JACOB,

57 Eleventh Avenue

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

The man that blushes is not quite a brute.

A. A. (8), Tennis Club (8), W. W. (8).

Weiss is another who believes that silence is the best policy. He possesses some qualities worthy of commendation and essential to success.

WENDT, MAX F.,

85 Stuyvesant Avenue

Technical. Prospects: Stevens Institute.

The greatest truths are simplest, and so are the greatest men.

Technical Club (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Vice-President (8), Rifle Club (7, 8).

Max is a tall, quiet fellow with a pleasing personality. He is very proficient in his chosen line of work, and we are sure of his ultimate success.

WHEELWRIGHT, MAY BLANCHE, 318 South Nineteenth Street

General. Prospects: Undecided.

A wise head has a close mouth.

Barnstormers (8).

Miss Wheelwright is another of those classmates who have a faculty for being inconspicuous. She is, however, very well liked in her own circle of friends.

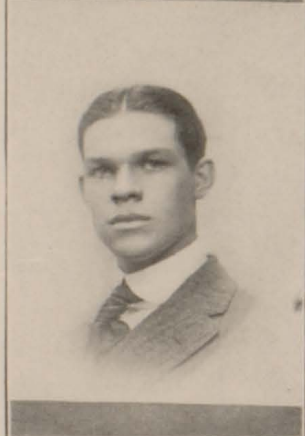

WHITE, MARGUERITE, 646 South Twentieth Street

Commercial. Prospects: New York School for Librarians.

Literature is the thought of thinking souls.

PIVOT (4, 5), SENIOR PIVOT (8), Girls' Service (5, 6, 7, 8), Secretary (6), Class Treasurer (7).

Marguerite, our literary genius, has delighted us with many interesting stories in the PIVOT. Besides this, Marguerite is one of the cleverest and most obliging girls in the school. For these reasons, she has become very popular, not only among the students, but also among the faculty.

WILLE, JOSEPH, 341 North Seventh Street

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

Well-doing never tires the industrious.

White Minstrels (2), Glee Club (1, 2), Central Service (7, 8), Technical Club (7, 8), Rifle Club (7, 8), Barnstormers (8), Football Team (7), Baseball Team (8), A. A. (7, 8).

Wille's list of activities is sufficient in itself. For many reasons, not the least of which is his pleasant disposition, we are glad to have him among our number.

WRIGHT, EVERETT, 141 Delavan Avenue

Technical. Prospects: Stevens Institute.

He was ever precise in promise keeping.

Camera Club (5, 6, 7, 8), President (7), Technical Club (8), A. A. (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8).

"Useless," as Wright is often called, is far from appropriate. Although his activities have been few, Wright has taken every course in mathematics given in the school, and it may not be long before Wright will be seen teaching logarithms in 212 (in spite of his name).

THE PIVOT

ADUBATO, MARY,

170 James Street

General Latin. Prospects: Normal School.

Mary, Mary, quite contrary.

Girls' Service (6, 7, 8), W. W. (5, 6, 7, 8), Dante Literary (8), Barnstormers (8), Girls' A. A. (5, 6, 7, 8), Wireless Club (8).

In the debating society and in the classroom Mary always takes an opposing view. The method of getting information from her is first to ask her, and then to find out. Mary is quite a jollier.

CENTANNI, RALPH,

80 Cutler Street

Technical. Prospects: Undecided.

Wise and good is better than rich and great.

A. A. (5, 6, 7, 8), Dante Literary (7, 8), President (7), Centro Castellano (8), Secretary W. W. (7, 8).

Ralph, until recently, was not very active in school affairs. As President of the Dante Literary Society he showed his ability as an executive and as a student of Italian.

DEUTSCH, HANNAH,

69 Prince Street

General. Prospects: Dr. Savage's School.

A decent boldness ever meets with friends.

Girls' A. A. (4, 5, 6, 7), Vice-President (7), Girls' Basketball Team (4, 5, 6, 7).

Hannah is one of the school's "boy-girls." She is a cracker-jack athlete and has confined her school activities solely to this line. The bicycle seems to be her favorite means of locomotion, but because of her sunny disposition we refuse to hold this against her.

D'GIOVANNI, HARRY,

620 Ferry Street

General Latin. Prospects: New York Law School.

Good health is above wealth.

W. W. (8), Dante Literary (8), Wireless Club (8), A. A. (6, 7, 8).

Until this term Harry has been inactive in school affairs. He is a ball player of some note, but because of outside duties he has been unable to devote his abilities to Central's advantage. D'Giovanni has chosen law as his profession, and he has our wishes for success.

ESPOSITO, CHARLES,

17 Garside Street

He that runs fastest gets the ring.

Track Team (2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8), A. A. (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8).

A great little runner is Charles. Although he has not been active among the clubs, he has helped greatly in establishing Central's athletic glories.

THE PIVOT

FENIAS, MORRIS,

402 South Orange Avenue

3½ Year Student.

General. Prospects: N. Y. U.

Wonders will never cease.

Central Service (7, 8), Webster-Hayne (7, 8), President (8), Barnstormers (7, 8), Cast of "Amazons" (8), A. A. (7, 8), Clionia Literary (8).

Morris comes from the DeWitt Clinton High School in New York. He is certainly a valuable addition to our class, as his list of activities well show. We greatly regret that he did not give us his company earlier in his school career. Success to you, Morris.

KIELL, JOSEPH,

272 Fairmount Avenue

General Latin. Prospects: N. Y. U.

He is a Jack of all trades.

Webster-Hayne (6), Tennis Club (7, 8).

"Joe" is one of our best dancers and an all-round society fellow. As a result he has become a great favorite with the girls. "Joe" is also a student, as he has shown on numerous occasions when he has settled down to work.

LANGAMMER, HENRY,

851 South Nineteenth Street

Technical. Prospects: Stevens Institute.

All I ask is to be let alone.

Math. Club (8), Technical Club (4, 5, 6, 7, 8). ?

Everyone agrees that Henry is possessed of an unusual kind of dry humor, which makes him an interesting school fellow. In the matter of lessons, too, he is at the top. Henry loves to be by himself.

MARASCO, ALFRED R.

242 Bergen Street

3½ Year Student.

General. Prospects: Business.

Fortune gives her hand to a bold man.

Barnstormers (5, 6), Secretary (7), Dante Literary (6), President (7), W. W. (4, 5, 6), President (7), Clionia (5, 6), Vice-President (7), Central Service (5, 6, 7), PIVOT (7), Handbook Staff (6), Math. Club (5, 6, 7), Inter-Society Debating Team (6), Inter-scholastic Debating Team (7).

Marasco is known throughout the school for his debating ability. He is a fine all-around fellow, and has done many things for Central. He has considerable literary ability. We can predict nothing but success for him in latter life.

MARCELL, WINIFRED,

436 Plane Street

Commercial. Prospects: Undecided.

Character is higher than intellect.

Those who are included within Winifred's immediate circle of friends know her to be a good-natured, pleasant sort of girl, ever willing to help others. We regret that she did not extend her circle and include us all.

THE PIVOT

PASKIEWICZ, STEPHEN J., 118 Belmont Avenue

Technical. Prospects: Business.

Conscientious industry is bound to produce fruit.

Paskiewicz is one of those quiet, unassuming fellows. While he has not been active in school affairs, because of outside work, he has made this up in his studies.

PESTUNOWITZ, SIMON, 278 Prince Street

Technical. Prospects: Rensselaer.

I am not in the role of common men.

Clionia Literary (8), W. W. (8), Glee Club (2).

Pestunowitz is a very conscientious and willing worker. Although he has done little for his class, he has probably made up for this in his studies.

RUDERMAN, BARNEY, 63 Peshine Avenue

General Latin. Prospects: University of North Dakota.

From labor there shall come forth rest.

Webster-Hayne (5, 6, 7, 8), Math. Club (4, 5, 6, 7, 8), Centro Castellano (8), Football Team (7), A. A. (7, 8).

Debating seems to fill up most of Ruderman's time. Besides a debater, however, he is some football player.

SEIFREID, LORETTA, 9 Littleton Avenue

General French. Prospects: Normal School.

No pains, no gains.

Girls' Service (5), Girls' A. A. (2), Glee Club (1).

Loretta is another one of our quiet girls. Although very well liked in her circle of friends, she has not devoted much of her time to sociability with us, to our regret.

STOCKBRIDGE, MAE, 440 Bank Street

General. Prospects: Normal School.

W. W. (7, 8), Clionia Literary (3, 4), Girls' Service (5, 6), A. A. (3, 4), Barnstormers (8).

Young in limbs; in judgment, old.

Mae is a studious worker and a good companion. Her chief ailment seems to be history. However, we know that she has the power to overcome this difficulty.

TLUSTY, RUTH, 46 Stirling Street

Commercial. Prospects: Business.

There's nothing that allays an angry mind so soon as a sweet beauty.

Glee Club (1, 2), Japanese Operetta (2), Girls' Service (6, 7, 8), Girls' A. A. (3, 4).

Ruth is the songster of our class. We shall always remember her valuable services at school sociables. Although a 4-A, Ruth will not receive her diploma until January. She is, nevertheless, a great class favorite.

TECHNICAL STARS.

In the sewing department much has been accomplished by the senior students. Throughout their entire dressmaking course many useful articles of wearing apparel have been made by them. Now, as a fitting culmination to their work, the girls are engaged in the making of their graduation dresses. Edna Rohr, Florence Oneill, Edith Hefe, Mazie Nevius, Lillian Hawkins and Emma Schleicher are the senior girls who have attained greatest efficiency in the useful art of dressmaking.

Simon Pestunowitz has performed some excellent work in the shop. He expects, in connection with Abe Schachat, to complete a two-cylinder gas engine for a motor boat. It will probably be finished in time to appear in the exhibition of the 250th anniversary celebration.

Henry Langammer has also done good work in the shop. He has turned out numerous articles, most prominent among which are a drill, and a die for performing one operation in the making of a draw-puller and card-holder. He is at present engaged in making a punch for the die, and expects to complete it in a short time.

TENNIS CLUB.

Prior to this term, the seniors had not taken much interest in the sport of tennis. Now there has been a revival of tennis spirit among the members of the class, and several have joined the club for the 1916 tennis season. Carolyn Augenstien, the secretary, is the only officer who represents the senior class. The other senior tennis enthusiasts are: Carl Burgesser, John Groel, Frank Pollard, Irving Stelle, William Seff and Abe Isserman. These members are helping the tennis club to secure the court on the roof for the regular use of the members and to put out a strong team to represent the club in inter-school tournaments. Some of the seniors will undoubtedly be on the team.

TECHNICAL CLUB.

The Technical Club was formed for the purpose of increasing the technical knowledge of its members. With three senior officers as leaders, the club has taken several trips to different manufacturing plants. This term they visited the Copper Rolling Works, the Eberhardt-Faber Company, the Hay Foundry, Shooter's Island, Point-no-Point, and various smaller places. In this manner they have been brought into contact with actual processes of manufacturing, and have gained much valuable information of a practical sort.

The senior officers are: Alvan Cassedy, President; Max Wendt, Vice-President, and Joseph Walsh, G. O. Delegate. Other active seniors are: Charles Durr, John Flockhardt, Henry Langammer, Frank Pollard, Charles Schober, Joseph Wille and Everit Wright.

GIRLS' A. A.

Some of Central's best girl athletes are members of the June '16 class. The list of seniors is headed by Edith Miller, the president of the Association. Fannie Muller, Rebecca Eisenstein, Ruth Hawthorne, Josephine Kiernan, Mazie Nevius, Fannie Bear, Dorothy Siegal, Margaret Coburn, Hannah Deutsch and Edith Miller are the senior members of the athletic association. The four last named are on the Central High School girls' basketball team. These girls are also very active in other matters pertaining to girls' athletics. At the I B sociable held recently, they superintended the arrangements. Among their other achievements in the past year we have the gymnastic exhibition, and the after-school dancing class. Central is one of the few schools that have a girls' athletic association, and it is because of the seniors that the interest in girls' athletics has been maintained.

CENTRAL SERVICE CLUB.

A majority of the members of the school's leading club, the Central Service Club, are seniors. They deserve commendation for the good work which they have done during their careers as active members. All around us we can see evidence of their work. They are continually promoting school spirit, securing new things for the school, and serving the school in all possible ways. It was mainly through their efforts that the plans to award scholarship prizes and literary C's were adopted. The club, composed mainly of seniors, is a leading factor in the support of the G. O. For the purpose of raising funds, they have run basketball games, and a costume dance in conjunction with the Girls' Service Club.

All the seniors in the club are active workers, and spend much time in their efforts to better the school. By their graduation, a great gap will be left in the ranks of the club, which will not easily be filled. The chief officers of the club are seniors: Rudolph Glickman, President, and Louis Auerbacher, Vice-President. The following members, who have done much for the school, are also seniors: Alvan Cassedy, George Cohen, Wm. Cohen, Edward Blumenthal, Merle Darling, Morris Fenias, John Groel, Jacob Heller, Theodore Koerner, Alfred Marasco, Harry Pashkow, Frank Pollard, Ernest Rasnick, David Ravitz, John Roalefs, Fred Schaefer, Irving Starr, Irving Stelle, Joseph Susskind, Raymond Szymonowicz, Joseph Walsh and Joseph Wille.

STENOGRAPHY IN CENTRAL.

Central has been true to its motto, "Central leads and others follow" in stenography as well as in other lines. In fact, it was one of the first high schools in the country to realize the advantages of stenography and accept it in its regular routine of studies. Due to Mr. Telfer's exertions, sixteen machines have been installed since September, 1914. The seniors were the first to answer his call, and they constituted a large part of the first class in this study. Gradually Mr. Telfer's efforts materialized, and now four classes have completed the course in stenography. The success in the work to date is due chiefly to the wonderful little machine used. It is very easy to master and can be operated with great speed. Business men immediately realized these qualities, and are now employing stenotypists, rather than stenographers. The field for stenotypists is very large, and consequently it affords great opportunity. We hope that the lower classmen will follow the example of the seniors and take advantage of the opportunity open to them. A hint to the wise is sufficient.

GIRLS' SERVICE CLUB.

It is only logical, in a club whose membership is composed of the most public spirited girls in the school, that the majority should be seniors. This is true of the Girls' Service Club. The Vice-President, Helen Gubleman, and the following members are seniors: Dorothy Seigal, Elizabeth Kent, Marguerite White, Miriam Lewis, Ruth Hawthorne, Dorothy Lehman, Ruth Comes, Lillian Hawkins, Fanny Bear, Margaret Coburn, Loretta Seigfriend and Emma Schleicher.

The Girls' Service Club is a power for good in the school. The members try to promote the general welfare of the girls in the school, and to maintain high standards in the student body. The following is a short account of the notable things which have been accomplished by the Girls' Service Club, besides the regular work mentioned above. For the last two terms sociables have been held each term for the purpose of familiarizing the I B girls with the older pupils. A sociable was also held to raise money for the G. O. These affairs were carried off very successfully.

Again, to aid the G. O., a costume dance was held in conjunction with the Central Service Club. This was another huge success. The last thing which the senior members of the Girls' Service Club will accomplish will be to arrange a float to represent the school in the parade in honor of Newark's 250th anniversary.

MATHEMATICS CLUB.

Among the seniors there is no lack of interest in mathematics. Three years ago, when the class was still in its infancy, Abe Isserman and Theodore Koerner first enlisted as followers of Euclid and Pythagoras. As time went on, more and more members joined, until at the present time, a great majority of the club are seniors. Under their guidance, the organization has had one of the most successful seasons of its existence.

Every week lectures have been given by teachers, and talks by students. This was the result of the arrangement committee's work. This committee is composed of three seniors, William Cohen being chairman. Checkers and chess were also featured in the club. Three of the officers are seniors: Joseph Susskin, President; Theodore Koerner, Vice-President, and David Ravitz, Secretary.

We are proud of the following list of seniors in the club, in addition to the officers: Mr. Cohen, Wallace Coombes, Eli Frankel, Jacob Heller, Abe Isserman, J. Russell Kennedy, William Krauss, Henry Langhammer, Harry Pashkow, Frank Pollard, Ernest Rasnick, Barney Ruderman, Fred Schadt and Charles Smith.

DEBATING.

Of all the school activities, the one which will suffer most by the graduation of the class of June, '16, is debating. From the very beginning, a large interest has been taken in argumentation by the members of the class. The loss of debaters will be so great, that for next term nothing but raw material will be left. The members of the teams in the last intersociety debate, with the exception of one, were all seniors. Eli Frankel, Wm. Seff and Wm. Cohen represented the Webster-Hayne; Fannie Bear and Alfred Marasco, the W. W. Likewise, three of the associates on the interscholastic team, namely Eli Frankel, Alfred Marasco and Rudolph Glickman are seniors. Harold Avidan, a post-graduate, was the other member.

In both societies the majority of officers are seniors. Those in the Webster-Hayne are: Morris Fenias, President; Elizabeth Kent, Vice-President, and Eli Frankel, G. O. Delegate. In the W. W., Alfred Marasco is President; Fannie Bear, Vice-President; Abe Isserman, Secretary, and Joseph Susskind, Sergeant-at-arms.

Other seniors in the Webster-Hayne who are especially active are as follows: William Cohen, Jacob Heller, Theodore Koerner, and Irving Stelle. Those most active in the W. W. are: Raphael Centanni, Augusta Eskowitz, Katherine Leahy, Simon Pestunowitz and David Ravitz. There are, of course, many other, but less active, seniors.

SENIORS CONTROL GENERAL ORGANIZATION.

On March 31st, the G. O., after a long period of inactivity, again resumed its active existence by the election of officers. The results of the election are as follows: Charles Schober, President; Miriam Lewis, Vice-President; Alvan Cassidy, Thomas Farrel, Florence Oneill, Theodore Koerner, Dorothy Seigal, Le Roy Stein, Fanny Baer and Harry Schaub, Executive Committee. The president, vice-president and five members of the executive committee are seniors. With this excellent administration, and with the support of the school, the G. O. is now ready to carry out fully the several purposes of the organization as stated in the constitution. The school body will soon realize that the great advantages derived from being a member of the G. O. will make it imperative that each individual pupil join the organization as an act of justice to himself.

At a time when G. O. prospects looked dark, and when the funds of the organization were in a sadly depleted condition, the senior class did yeoman service in bolstering up the pillars which supported the G. O. The whole senior class became members of the G. O.,

and committees were appointed to see about raising funds. As a result, dances were held by the class, entrance to which was gained by the payment of a small admission fee, and an admission fee to the basket ball games was also charged. The proceeds of these affairs were turned over to the G. O. The seniors aided materially at the Big Meet by selling tickets and exhorting others to buy them. It was the proceeds of the meet which put the G. O. financially on its feet.

CAMERA CLUB.

Although few in number, the senior A's in the Camera Club have made a very creditable showing. Their work has been among the best produced by the club. Irving Stelle, who has long been a camera man, has done some notable work. In a recent contest held to encourage photography, Stelle won five of the prizes offered. Two of these were first prizes, one being for the best picture in the speed class, and one for the best in the portrait class. He also captured second prize in the speed class, and second and third prizes in animal photography. Everet Wright, who has held office in the club several times, has won many prizes in the past. Cooper Sickle is also an active member of the club. It is chiefly due to the influence of these seniors that the club has reached its present stage of efficiency and usefulness.

DO YOU KNOW THESE CHAMPIONS?

When the present senior class graduates in June, the school will lose its fastest and most efficient stenotypist, Dorothy Siegal. Dorothy has acquired great skill in manipulating the keyboard of the stenotype machine. She is capable of doing practice work at the rate of 200 words per minute, and new matter at the rate of about 140 words per minute. The Stenotype Company employed her when the Convention of Eastern Commercial Teachers met at the Hotel McAlpin during the Easter vacation.

William Krauss is the leading typist and stenographer of the school. About a year and a half ago he won his first honors, receiving a certificate from the Underwood Typewriter Company for typewriting at the rate of 40 words per minute. Later he won a Remington gold medal, for writing at the rate of more than 55 words per minute for ten consecutive minutes with less than 15 errors. At a typewriting contest in the Merchants' and Bankers' School at New York City, he won third place. This contest was open to all high schools within 25 miles of New York. His rate was 69 words per minute, for 15 consecutive minutes. In shorthand his best record for practise matter is 152 words per minute, new matter 142 words. By their achievements, these students upheld the high standards of the senior class.

June 16's Athletics

The class of June, '16, has in its ranks the largest collection of athletics that any graduating class of Central has ever had. The following brief summary shows what boys have done good work in our major sports:

Track—Angus, Eachenfelder, Aratowsky, Flockhardt, Esposito.

Cross-Country—Angus, Easchenfelder, Schaefer, Smith.

Football—Flockhardt, Schober, Wille.

Basketball—Towey, Rasnick.

Baseball—Schober, Towey, Wille.

This high record in athletics is something of which any class may be proud. Besides these athletes who have met with success, we have among us the following who have shown earnestness and some ability—Burgesser, Groel, Cohen, Frankel.

In Winfield Angus we certainly have a premier athlete. Any class should be proud of having such a notable as Angus, who became a star when Central first opened. Since then, he has competed in almost every cross-country and track meet the school has engaged in, and has scored many points. Angus was a member of the American Champion Cross-country and the Eastern State Champion Track Teams, and at present is our track captain. To state all that "Injun" has accomplished in athletics would take a special issue of the Pivot.

Hughey Towey is another one of our celebrated athletes. Although he has been in Central only one year he has already made a name for himself in athletics. As center on the basketball team, he did excellent work. Before coming to us he pitched on the Seton Hall baseball team for two seasons, and he is one of our varsity pitchers this term.

Charles Schober is another fellow who has done big things in athletics for Central. He has played on the baseball team for the last three years, and on the football team for the last two years. Besides this, "Brownie" is a member of the track squad, and will probably represent the class in the Interclass relays. Recently he was elected president of the Athletic Association.

John Flockhart has certainly accomplished a great deal in the line of athletics. He played on the football team for three years, being captain of last year's team. As a track man, "Jawn" has always been a consistent point scorer. He has been our star shot-putter, javelin-thrower, and discus man for the past four years. We can't say more for fear of making him blush. All we can do is to congratulate him.

Charles Esposito brings great credit to our class for his brilliant work as a track man. Four years ago he was the star junior sprinter and broad jumper, and was a member of the fast junior relay. Ever since then he has represented Central and has scored in every meet.

Charles Smith is a fellow who has taken considerable interest in athletics in this school. Besides being a member of the track squad, Charley has attended to the business end of athletic activities. He won a pie emblem and a "C2" at cross-country, and was manager of our basketball team during the 1915-1916 season.

William Krauss, our star typist and stenographer, has made scholarship and athletics go hand in hand. Billy was the champion all-round turner of Central in 1912.

Although he made his debut in athletics but recently, Andrew Eschenfelder has done very well as a runner. Last year he captured fourth place in the mile at the East Orang-Central Dual Meet, and fifth in the same event at the City Meet. Andy was eighth man on our 1915 cross-country team, and this year got sixth place in the mile at our indoor meet.

Joseph Wille went out for football last fall, and, after hard training, made the team and was awarded a "C." At present he is a candidate for the position of catcher on the baseball team, and it seems very likely he will succeed in securing it.

Fred Schaefer is a fellow who also started late in athletics. Last year he earned a "C2" at cross-country and was recently awarded a similar emblem for work as assistant basketball manager. At present he is our track manager.

Ernest Rasnick is one of the members of our class who succeeded in making the basketball team. For two years he played guard on the second team, and this year he was one of our chief scorers on the first team, his sensational field goals featuring his playing. "Husky" gained fame as a grammar school runner, and at present he is out for our class relay, which will run in the East Orange-Central Dual Meet.

Charles Durr has been active in the managing of Central's athletics. Last season he was assistant baseball manager, while this term he is in sole charge of our team. Besides doing managerial work, Charles at one time was out for track. In our 1914 Inter-class games he finished fourth to Angus in the quarter-mile handicap.

DID YOU KNOW THAT:

Barney Ruderman was out for football last year, made good as a centre, and was awarded an emblem?

Fred Schadt is one of our new assistant track managers?

Louis Auerbacher has been Central's cheer-leader for more than a year, and is also helping the track managers?

Carl Burgesser ran with the cross-country team and also in the half-mile handicap at the "Big Meet"?

Frank Pollard was assistant cheer-leader at the Meet?

Abe Isserman ran in the half-mile handicap at the Meet?

Alfred Marasco was at one time out for the cross-country team and did fairly good work?

John Groel succeeded in getting fourth place in the half-mile handicap at the Meet and is at present out for the Class Relay?

Everett Hughes is making a strong bid for a place on the baseball team?

And so is Irving Starr?

"Useless" Wright was formerly our varsity high jumper?

Harold Pashkow has played on the basket-ball team for two years?

George Cohen has been on the second team at basketball for two years, and is out for the Class Relay?

Alvan Cassedy was the student manager of the "Big Meet"?

The A. A. is controlled by seniors? Charles Schober, President; Hugh Towey, Vice-President; Joseph Walsh, Secretary, and Charles Smith, Treasurer and G. O. Delegate?

GIRLS' ATHLETICS.

Edith Miller, without doubt, is one of the best girl athletes Central has ever put out. Since her freshman year, she has figured actively in all athletics. Edith played guard on the class basketball team every term, until in her senior year, when she tried her hand at playing forward. Her good work in this position has secured her a place on the 'varsity team. In addition to being a crack basketball "shot" Edith is also a star baseball player, having played with a girls' baseball team all last summer.

Dorothy Siegal, one of our most versatile girl athletes, has been an ardent supporter of girls' athletics ever since she entered Central. She has played on the class basket-ball teams every term, and has also played on the 'varsity team. Dorothy has also come out for hockey, baseball, and running, and has been a main factor on all these teams.

Hannah Deutsch is one of our star basket-ball players. Hannah boasts that she can play any position in the game, and has proven it to us many a time. She is at her best, however, when playing guard. Hannah is also interested in baseball and hockey, and we are safe in saying that she is among Central's best all-round girl athletes.

Margaret Coburn is another very good basket-ball guard. "Peg" has not given us much chance to see her play, as she started work in athletics only in her junior year. However, from what we have seen of her, "Peg" has all the qualification of an adept girl athlete.

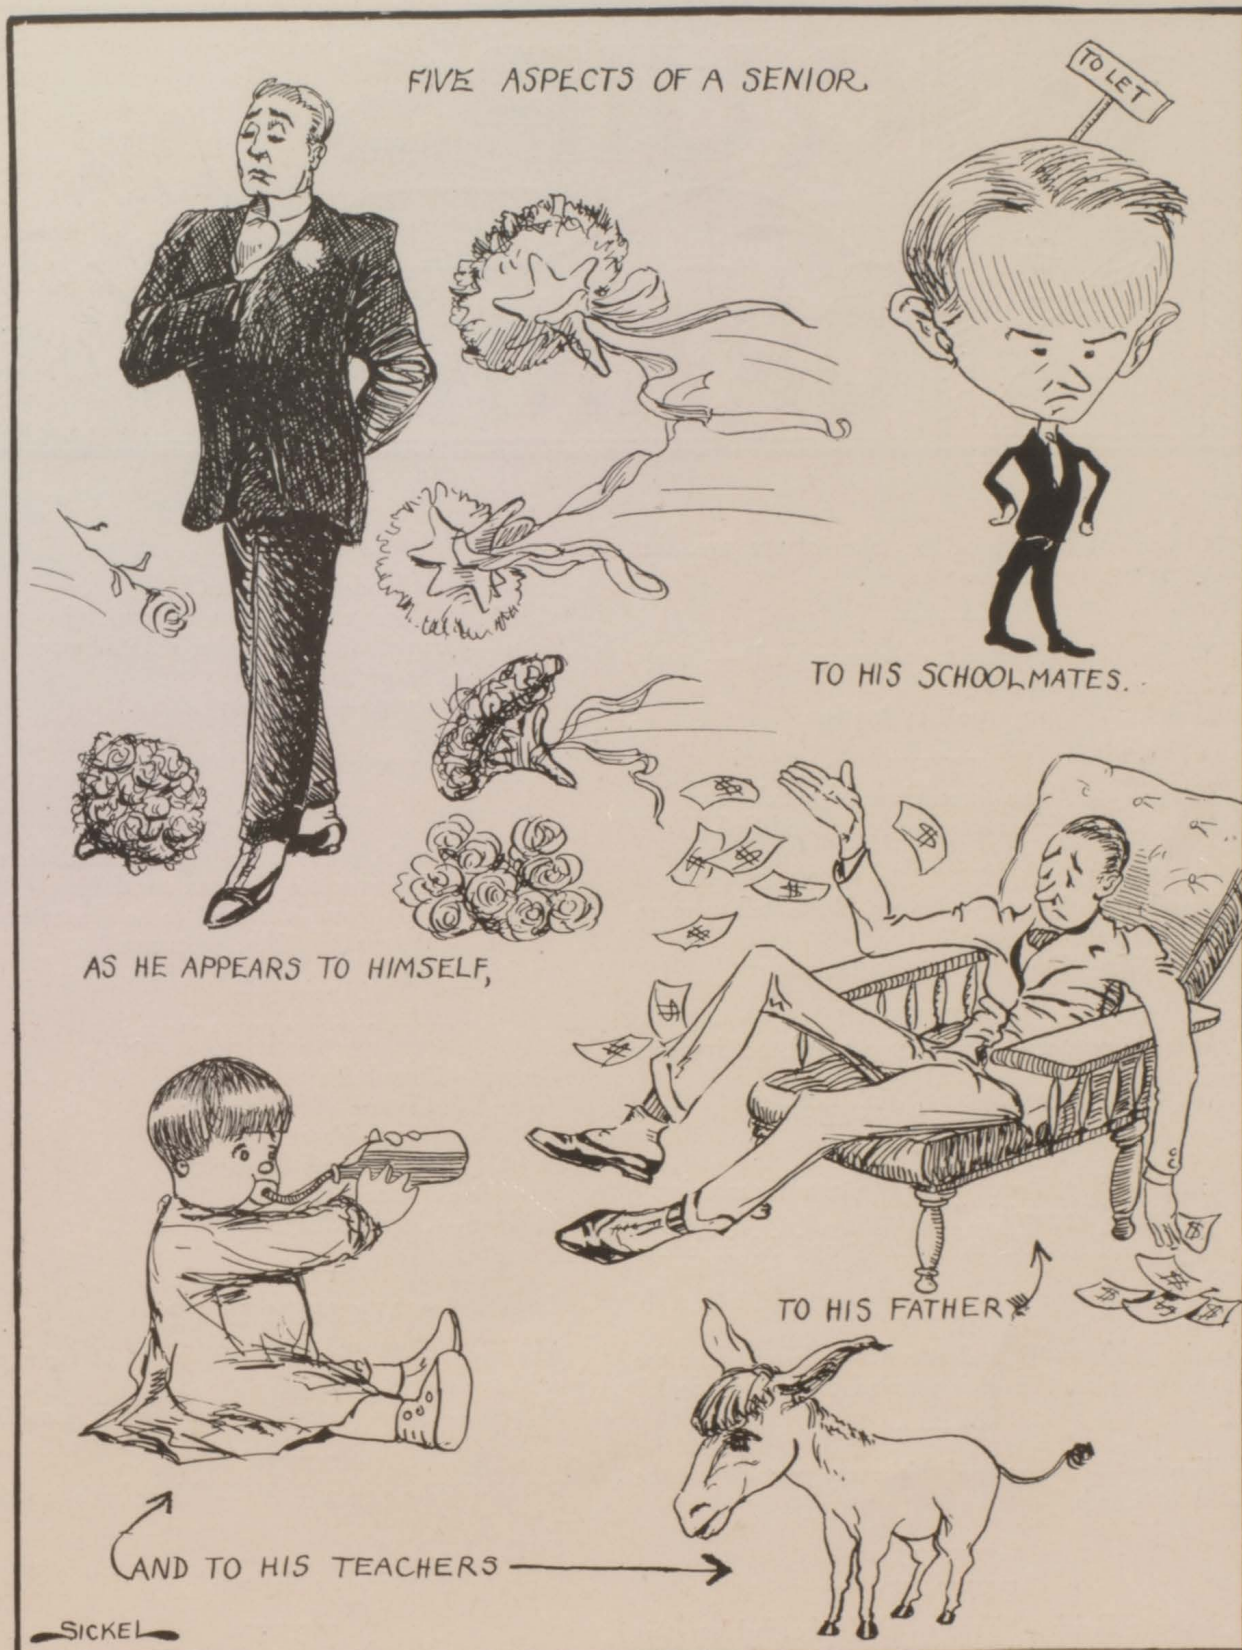

Fannie Bear is another of our enthusiastic athletes. Fannie, besides being noted for her basket-ball ability, is one of our fastest runners, and will run on the senior relay team in the Dual Meet.

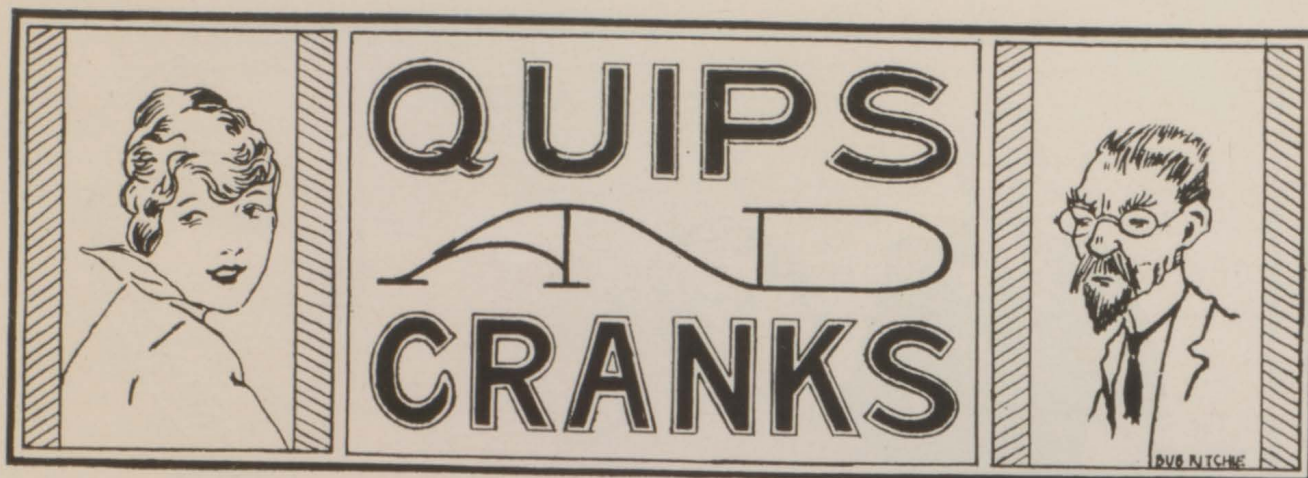

Mazie Nevius is undoubtedly one of our best runners and basket-ball players. Mazie expects to be a gym teacher, and she will succeed if she keeps up the work she has started at Central.

Fannie Muller, besides being one of the best social dancers in the school, is an excellent runner. She is to be one of the eight girls to run on the senior relay team at the Dual Meet with East Orange.

The class of June, '16, may boast of girl athletes as well as boy athletes. Among our number we find girls who have participated in every line of sports in the school.

THE PIVOT

If you can't laugh at the jokes of the age, then laugh at the age of the jokes.

Walsh (giving Wright an orange peel)—"I appeal to you."

Wright—"Your appeal is fruitless."

Teacher—"Name three kinds of nuts."

Miss Kent—"Peanuts, doughnuts, and Seff."

Teacher (in history)—"Now, Wille, tell us something about the iron age."

Joe—"Er—I'm a bit rusty on the subject."

Miss Augenstein—"Have you heard the fly-paper 'rag'?"

Miss Leahy—"Yes, it's rather catchy."

Groel—"Say, I got 100 in two tests this morning."

Beattie—"Impossible."

Groel—"I got 50 in geometry and 50 in chemistry."

Fannie Muller—"I understood the lesson, but the teacher's explanation of it puzzled me a good deal."

Teacher—"If you read this essay, you will get the flavor of Lamb."

In answer to the many questions asking for a definition of a ukalali, we submit the following from Pancoast's "Hawaiian Poems":
 The ukalali is a fiddle that you twiddle till it toodles
 Like a fillylooloo feeding on a platter full of noodes,
 But it's rather more aesthetic in its nature and appeal—
 Have you ever lamped a lily singing rondels to an eel?

The ukalali has a treble like a pebble when it tootles,
 Or a daffodillan ditty when the fainness of it footles;
 But it's rather more exotic in its esoteric phases—
 Did you ever hear a throstle when its thirst flared into blazes?

The ukalali has a werble that will burble till it sobbles
 Like the gastronomic gringo who is glumphy as he gobbles,
 But the meaning of it's occult, like the psychics when they sizz—
 Have you ever looked at wizards showing lizards how to wizz?

After Graduation What?

THOUSANDS of young men and women who are about to be graduated from High School are wondering what is the best vocation to follow. To those in doubt, Physical Education as a profession should be earnestly considered, for it offers opportunities greater, by far, than many other fields of endeavor, is healthful, useful, dignified and profitable.

The demand for teachers of physical education is growing, the work pleasant and satisfying.

The most healthful training course offered in New York. One-half lectures and one-half practice. Games, dances and general physical training. Anatomy, physical hygiene and methods.

Agency," and in front of the Darling, pen in hand, is Elizabeth Kent signing for a position as waitress, and Andrew Eschenfelder, asking to be given a trial as a steeplejack. We descend to the hugh court that surrounds the building, and there stands Alfred Marasco gazing at the stars and wishing for meal time to reappear. We are transported from there to a large stone-walled enclosure, which we recognize as Sing Sing. Dressed in prisoners' garb, manicuring stones, are the detentionists, Russell Kennedy, Louis Rolerfort, William Lowenberg, and Wallace Coombes, with Max Wendt and William Krauss performing guard duty. But we have seen enough of the future. Oh, would we were back to the present! No sooner said than done. The glass and magician disappeared, and we awoke fully charmed at the wonderful visions we had beheld.

"Lives of great men all remind us,
We can make our lives sublime;

DANTE LITERARY SOCIETY.

The Dante Literary Club is an organization of Italian students, the purpose of which is to study Italian literature and life. The members who are graduating this term are: Mary Adubato, Raphael Centanni, Charles DeRose, Harry D'Giovanni, Raphael Petosa and Alfred Marasco, who is president. It is needless to say that these members are the organizers and mainstays of the club. It was they who launched the club successfully and who started it going at a creditable pace. At every meeting different students report on Italian books, or on subjects of Italian interest.

The graduation of the senior members will undoubtedly be keenly felt by the remaining members of the club.

CLIONIA LITERARY SOCIETY.

In glancing over the list of officers and members of the Clonia Literary Society, we find that the seniors are predominant. All of the officers are seniors. They are: Miriam Lewis, President; Alfred Marasco, Vice-President; Florence O'Neill, Secretary, and Joe Susskind, G. O. Delegates. The following seniors are active members of the society: Carolyn Augenstein, Ruth Comes, Augusta Eskowitz, Lillian Hawkins, Katherine Leahy, Fannie Muller, Morris Fenias, Eli Frankel, Abe Isserman and William Seff.

These members have done their duty by carrying out the purpose of the club in the study of literature. During Easter week the club took a hike, and held an open air meeting.

An elderly teacher in rebuking a pupil remarked, "When George Washington was your age he was a surveyor."

The pupil promptly replied, "And when he was your age, he was President of the United States."

The new night watchman at the college was observing a student using the big telescope. Just then a star fell. "Begorra," said the watchman, "that fellow is a crack shot."
